

PEEFIFIED LEAVES $800,000 TO PENN

Scholarships Also Provided for N. Y. and Catholic Universities by Late Diplomat

BULK OF ESTATE TO WIDOW

Frederic Courtland Penfield, formerly United States Ambassador to Austria, left substantial bequests to the University of Pennsylvania, New York University and the Catholic University at Washington for the establishment of scholarships for studies in diplomatic and international affairs.

The bulk of the residue of the estate is devised to the widow, Mrs. Anne Weighman Penfield, who is named as sole executrix, and to whom letters testamentary were granted.

The value of the estate left by the decedent is mentioned as "$200,000 and upward," but it is said that the actual value will amount to several millions of dollars.

The bequests in the will are: To my niece, Georgiana Young Penfield, in trust, to invest the sum of $100,000, in trust, to give the principal thereof during the minority of McMirando Silver, son of the late Prof. John A. Silver, of Johns Hopkins University, N. Y., and grandson of my first wife, and upon his majority to pay over to the principal to him absolutely.

I give and bequeath to Mary Quigley $25,000, as a fitting reward for years of devoted domestic service to my beloved wife and myself.

I give and bequeath to the New York Yacht Club the oil painting in my collection by W. L. Wyllie, R. A., entitled "Tide Race, Portsmouth Harbor."

I give and bequeath to the University of Pennsylvania the sum of $50,000, for the purpose of establishing and maintaining scholarships for studies in diplomatic, international affairs and belles-lettres, to be known as Penfield Scholarships.

A life sum of $80,000 each is left to the New York University and the Catholic University for a similar purpose and under similar conditions.

After directing that the collateral inheritance tax or any other tax, State or national, be paid by the estate, he leaves the residue of the property to the widow, Anne Weighman Penfield, absolutely, and appoints her sole executrix, without bond and without being required to file an inventory and appraisal or an account of the estate in any jurisdiction.

Senator to Address Mass-Meeting at Academy This Evening

A mass-meeting will be held tonight at the Academy of Music for discussion of conditions in Russia and to voice a demand for the recognition of the present Russian Government.

There will be several speakers who will urge Soviet recognition. Among them will be United States Senator Borah and Mlle. Leonarda Zakhvskaya.

Arrangements for the meeting have been the work of Miss Helen Todd, of the Foreign Policy Association.

POLICE SEEK MOTHER AND FIVE CHILDREN

Mrs. Anna Cortigini and Babies Disappear From Home

Police were asked today to locate Mrs. Anna Cortigini, twenty-nine years old, of 1729 South Ringgold street, who disappeared Sunday with her five children, ranging in age from eight months to five years old.

According to Antonio Cortigini, the woman's husband, she left home early in the morning, presumably to visit her mother in Camden, but she never returned, and nothing has been heard from either her or the children since that time.

PALESTINE EFFORT PRAISED BY MAYOR

Tells Zionists All Foreign Down-trodden Races Look to America

LIKENS JORDAN TO PANAMA

Mayor Moore referred to the Palestine homeland project as one of the great altruistic movements in the world, in an address today before the Zionist Organization of America, which is holding its twenty-first annual convention in the Hotel Adelphi.

The Mayor's address was enthusiastically received, and he was elected an honorary president of the Zionist Jewish League, an organization that numbers many Gentiles among its members.

"You represent the truth that there are still in the world men and women who are not steeped in selfishness, and who are not given over exclusively to the hunt for gain, who don't forget their down-trodden fellow men," said the Mayor.

"In your more fortunate position in America, moved by racial and religious motives, you have organized to improve the lot of your less fortunate brethren in the land which should be their country. I find your movement noble and commendable, and I fail to see why it should not be encouraged."

"I cannot understand why all the Jews don't come to our assistance," prominent Jewish engineer, who spoke yesterday before the convention, Mayor Moore said.

"There are many constructive minds of the same sort among your people, and some of them in our own city," the engineer had spoken of harnessing the waters of the Jordan River to get motive power for various machinery in Palestine factories and mills.

"I hope," said the Mayor, "that the engineer's plan will bring as much to Palestine as the Panama Canal has brought to the world. It will open new opportunities for labor in agriculture, and it will make your people strong, sturdy and self-supporting."

"Moreover, it will provide the energy that you require for the industrial development of the land. It will bring electrical life into the homes and workshops, and what you are going to do, and in a work of this sort I can only say, 'God bless you.'"

SIX YEARS FOR GIRL

Sophie Kellyon, a nineteen-year-old Wilkes-Barre girl, will spend the next six years, possibly ten, in the Eastern Penitentiary here. She was sentenced yesterday by Judge Jones, of Wilkes-Barre, for being implicated in the murder of George John, a wealthy merchant.

LOVE FOR CREAMY SHOWN IN SLAIN TEACHER'S LETTERS

No Suggestion of Trouble Between the Two Found in Endearing Missives Written by Young Woman

New York, June 27.—"Oh, some times I wish I could die and end it all!" This is an excerpt from one of 250 endearing letters written to William Creamy, the Kentuckian under arrest in the Mineola Jail, charged with the murder of Miss Edith E. Lavy, the prettiest girl in the town, who was dead with a bullet in her head, in a boarding house at 158 North Main street, Freeport, L. I., last Friday night.

In many of the letters to Creamy, made public yesterday by the prisoner's counsel, Miss Lavy indicated that she was tired of life and wanted to die. Through these missives, virtually all of them couched in the most endearing terms, it developed that for some time she had been in possession of Creamy's revolver, the very one with which she was shot.

No Suicide Thoughts

There was no direct inference that she contemplated suicide because of unhappiness over Creamy. But in one letter she complained of her mother's falling health and wrote that if she felt that her mother was going to die, she, too, would want to go.

In a letter dated May 22, 1922, she wrote to Creamy: "Darling boy, I will send you a long letter. Believe me, darling boy, I am not myself at all—haven't been for some time. And judging by your letters, I guess you are not yourself, either. Billy, dear, guess that's all we're on earth for—trouble. I have never had such trouble before."

"Oh, sometimes I wish I could die and end it all, but I must be brave and wait until I have served my time in this wicked old world."

"That was good advice you gave me when falling in love. No, Billy, don't worry about me falling in love. Guess I am not built that way. Sometimes I wish I could. But I have given up on that. I thought I was not myself, and end it all, but I must be brave and wait until I have served my time in this wicked old world."

"Is There Any Love?"

"God, is there such a thing as love? I'm afraid not for me. "Billy, dear, how are you these love-lusty spring days? So glad you love Miss Veth so much. Billy, I know she must be a wonderful girl. "Billy, dear, as for that gun, I do not want it, and you know it, darling boy. However, be that what you want, so badly, I sure will send it to you tonight, as I have it all packed up and have real need for it. "Good-by, darling boy, and I'll write to you soon and surely send you your gun tonight. (Signed) "ME, x x x." On May 29 she sent this brief missive: "My Darling Boy: Will kiss your picture as I—4. ME, x x x. "P. S.—Will send you that gun, Billy, dear."

"Never Rains but Pours"

On June 4 last, Miss Lavy wrote: "Darling Boy, I will be so glad to get home again, but I do get so tired of living sometimes. It seems we are here only for trouble. No, Billy, mother is no better and I am so anxious to go to her. I fear mother will never be well again, and if such is the case I want to go, too; it never rains but it pours. "Good night, darling boy. "ME."

MOORE TO RECOVER $500,000 DIER CASH

Application Filed in New York Court Asking Permission for Settlement

SUM NOW TOTALS $800,000

Application was made today by Manfred Ehrlich, trustee for E. D. Dier & Co., in the United States District Court at New York, for permission to arrange a settlement with various persons indebted to the bankrupt firm, that would lead to the recovery of $500,000.

An offer is said to have been made by Charles A. Stoneham, formerly of the firm of Stoneham & Co., whose business was taken over by Dier, whereby $300,000 will be turned over to the bankrupt firm. This Ehrlich wishes to accept, rather than become involved in lengthy suits.

Colonel Henry T. Hughes, formerly of Hughes and Dier, is listed for a settlement of $100,000; Lawrence Starr, formerly of Dier & Co., is down for the recovery of $25,000, while the recovery of $20,500 is expected from Mrs. Edith Reid Dier.

A clause has been inserted in both the Hughes and Mrs. Dier settlements, whereby the trustees may make a further examination, and both persons will be liable for perjury if they are found to be able to make larger settlements, as they have made affidavits stating that the sums specified were the maximum amounts they could give.

A total of $500,000 to be recovered brings the total for disbursements to $800,000. The liabilities of the bankrupt firm are $4,000,000, and $3,200,000.

Notices were mailed today that a meeting of creditors will be held in New York July 8, at which time the matters of settlement will be taken up in detail.

PHILADELPHIANS ORGANIZE FOR OCEAN CITY ELECTION

Mayor Champion Surprised by Attack on City Government

Reports that Philadelphia property owners in Ocean City, N. J., were organizing for the approaching Mayor City election there, because the city government was a "family affair" were received with surprise by Mayor Champion today.

"I see no reason why they should go to all that trouble," the Mayor said. "Any one is welcome to my job and can have it with no strings attached."

DIES OF POISON IN LONDON

"Misadventure" is Verdict After Inquest on New York Man's Body

London, June 27.—(By A. P.)—The Coroner's inquest today on the body of J. Sanford Salsus, of New York, an American who died Saturday at the Hotel Metropole, resulted in the verdict that death was due to misadventure.

The assistant manager of the hotel testified at the inquest that Mr. Salsus was extremely temperate, but that a week before his death he had acted somewhat peculiarly and was unusually agitated over the death of Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, which seemed to upset him. Other witnesses testified that death apparently was due to poisoning.

After Mr. Salsus' death one of the two glasses found in the room smelled strongly of the poison and the other of ginger. The Coroner's officer said there was nothing to show whether the deceased had taken the mixture intentionally or by accident.

PEEPING "GHOST" IN WOODBURY JAIL

Farmhand is Caught Prowling in Employer's Home in Clarksboro, N. J.

SANITY PROBE ORDERED

A wandering "ghost," captured after a struggle by Edward L. Bond, of Clarksboro, N. J., has been committed to the Woodbury Jail as the "Peeping Tom" who recently alarmed the town of Swedesboro.

The "ghost" is Godfrey Hall, Negro and a farmhand employed by Bond.

The events which led to the capture began Saturday night, when Mrs. Bond heard strange noises in the house. Her husband roused on the lights, but the noise had moved to the hallway, and despite the creaking of the stairway, Bond could catch no glimpse of the intruder.

Sunday night Bond stayed awake and again heard the mysterious noise. Seizing a club, he followed the "ghost" out to the stairway and grappled with him. Under the light of a lamp he recognized Hall and let him go.

Today Sheriff Clark, of Woodbury, arrested Hall. When he was brought to Woodbury he was recognized by Under Sheriff Harold Leap as the "Peeping Tom" of Swedesboro. Hall was committed to jail by Justice Leon Godfrey pending an investigation of his sanity.

FETE TO OPEN NEW CITY TENNIS COURT

Celebration at Woodford Participated in by Mayor and Officials

REVISE RULES, BLOCK 'HO

Tennis devotees will hold a celebration today at Woodford, near DuPont street entrance to Fairmount Park, the event being the opening of the new tennis court provided by the city.

The affair will begin at 2:30 p. m. and Mayor Moore and members of the Council will be present. Music will be furnished by the Philadelphia Police Band and there will be speeches and an exhibition tennis match, the day to end up with a dinner at the Manhattan.

Alan Corson, chief engineer of Fairmount Park Commission, supervised the construction of the new courts, forty-eight of which have been built at a cost of $50,000. All the courts are not yet ready for use, but some of them, however, will be put into use by Saturday. Some are already old Speedway, and others are at Woodford. They have been constructed on the "professional" court model adopted at those at the Philadelphia Country Club.

Tennis has become increasingly popular. The old "skin" courts at Woodford sufficed for years, but they became so popular more were needed. Council was appealed for more courts and the appropriation was made. William T. Tilden, world's champion tennis player, and other followers of the game.

Twenty-four of the new courts are located along the line of the old road, near Woodside Park. Others have been made to the old Road Drive Club on the speedway, adjoining new courts, and lockers and shower baths have been installed.

Tennis court hours have given rise to Park officials considerable trouble in that courts are not yet ready for use, but go into effect. No player will be allowed to use a court longer than three hours at a stretch.

EDUCATION CALLED STATESMEN'S NEED IN ROW OVER BILL

Bishop Shahan Says Mere Knowledge Won't Solve World Problems

NOTED CATHOLICS HERE

"Education no longer offers any guarantee of personal character, service or fair play," Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, rector of the Catholic University of America, told delegates at the general meeting of the Catholic Educational Association this morning.

The session was held in Alumnae Hall of the Catholic Girls' High School. Bishop Shahan, president of the association, said that education is not now being given to the masses, but that it is being given to a few.

"I know," he said, "that education is not now being given to the masses, but that it is being given to a few. It is being given to a few who are going to use it for their own ends, and not for the benefit of the world."

He said that education is not now being given to the masses, but that it is being given to a few. He said that education is not now being given to the masses, but that it is being given to a few.

CONTRACTOR SLAIN IN ROW OVER BILL

Peter Grosso Shot in Head as He Leaves Cigar Store. Dies in Hospital

TOBACCONIST IS MISSING

An argument as to whether a sidewalk he had built was a "good job" resulted in the fatal shooting of Peter Grosso, thirty-three, a cement contractor and father of five children, of 1437 South Beulah street.

Grosso died at 10:30 o'clock today in Mount Sinai Hospital from a bullet wound in his right temple. Police are searching for Frank Labbate, charged with firing the shot.

According to the police, Grosso went to Labbate's cigar store, at Beulah and Dickinson streets, last night to collect $135 for building the sidewalk. Labbate contended the sidewalk was three inches too narrow and didn't see much hope for the future. He brought with him several gifts she had given him, a pair of cuff links, a gold steckpin and a cigarette case, and also all the letters she had written him during the two years they had known each other. All these, he said, he had intended to return to her.
